W. E. James left Tuesday for Montgomery, N. C., where he will spend the summer.

Miss Kate and Ella Braddy returned yesterday from Columbia on the holidays.

Misses, representing the Junior Standard Life Insurance Co., are in the city today.

Automobiles are so numerous in town that horses have begun to excite some curiosity.

Dr. J. R. Rogers has recovered from his recent illness and is able to be at his office again.

Miss Kate Elkins, of Fayetteville, N. C., is the guest of her cousin, Miss Mallie Fitts.

P. B. Sellers, N. B. Hargrove and J. B. Gibson are attending court at Marion this week.

Miss Daisy Godbold is at home again after a visit of several weeks to relatives at Marion.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Martin, of Mt. Airy, are visiting at the home of Mrs. T. L. Manning.

Mrs. L. Cottingham left Monday for a visit of several weeks to relatives in Williamsburg county.

C. T. O'Ferral has received a car load of Reo automobiles. The shipment included three Reo touring cars and two runabouts.

Mrs. R. M. O'Ferral and little daughter left yesterday for Blackstone, Va., where they will spend the summer.

C. S. Dwight left Monday for Columbia where he will spend about a week assisting in the main offices of the Southern Cotton Oil Co.,

A new business enterprise in Dillon is the Vaughan Furniture Co., which has opened a nice line of furniture in the store next to McLaurin's Drug Store.

Mr. T. L. Bass has returned from Milledgeville, Ga., where he has been taking a special course in the study of cotton. Mr. Bass will be one of the buyers on the Dillon market next season.

The Methodist Sunday School will have a picnic at Lake Waccamaw on the 9th or 10th. A special train will carry the children down to the Lake, leaving here about 8 a. m. and returning that night at the same hour.

Children's Day exercises will be held at the Methodist church next Sunday morning. The exercises will begin immediately after Sunday school is dismissed and will occupy the usual preaching hour. The public is cordially invited.

Dr. Stackhouse has returned from Richmond where he has been with his son, Master Stead, who was operated on for appendicitis. The operation was very successful and the little fellow is rapidly recovering. Mrs. Stackhouse is still in Richmond.

Mr. J. V. Malcom was taken suddenly ill while having some dental work done at Dr. J. H. Hamer's office Thursday afternoon. Mr. Malcom's illness, while of a very painful nature is not necessarily serious, and he will be able to resume his duties at the cotton mill office in a few days.

The Dillon mortorists ought to organize a local association and co-operate with the County Supervisor in building good roads. The automobile gets more benefit from good roads than any other vehicle that uses them.

W. E. James has been transferred from the Dillon oil mill to the Southern Cotton Oil Co's plant at Darlington and left for his new post of duty Tuesday afternoon. Mr. James' many Dillon friends regret very much to see him leave, but wish him much success in his new home.

At the races in Timmonsville Friday Albuta, the pacer formerly owned by a Dillon syndicate, won in the free-for-all race over Roy Wilkes, Belle of Darlington and Marguerite. In the 2:30 race Hebe, the trotting mare owned by T. W. Berry of Latta, got first money. This makes three races Albuta has won in succession during the past few weeks.

Mr. H. K. Cottingham's many friends will be delighted to learn that he was elected Grand Inner Guard at the Grand Lodge meeting in Charleston last week. During the past year Mr. Cottingham held the position of Grand Outer Guard and his elevation to the next highest rank is not only a great compliment to him as a man and a Pythian but is an indication that he has been faithful in the performance of his duties. Mr. Cottingham is now in line of promotion and if zeal and earnestness and a broad knowledge of the tenets of the order count for anything he may yet win the highest honors the state organization can confer upon him and that he will wear them worthily is not doubted by those who knew him best.

The Herald thinks it would be a good idea to dig the artesian well at the school house, because there it would do the greatest good to the greatest number and a community never makes a mistake in following that good old democratic doctrine. It will be impossible to locate the well anywhere in the business district without arousing dissatisfaction among the merchants and it would be like helping somebody that doesn't need help to dig it at the depot. If the town had waterworks and a fountain were placed in the depot flower garden it would be a very pretty and refreshing sight to weary travelers, but it is doubtful if a flow of water can be obtained that will rise above the surface of the ground and there would be nothing ornamental in a well so far underground that it could not be seen. The school is the property of the district and there could be no private gain by locating the well there.
